ABC of Politics

YOUTHANASIA

The malignancy of the policy adopted by the world governors-in-waiting is intended to ensure, come the millenium, when it is predicted that the messianic (Jewish) race will begin its reign, that the population will be so disorientated as to be reduced to irreversible subservience.

This, as all other policies of the same ambitious race, began its effect when the first cash payment was made to the first Christian traitor, Judas Iscariot, and has continued ever since, with fluctuating fortunes, in all climes and times until today, when the advent of the desired supremacy is being media-plugged by the apostles of Satan all day and every day with increasing arrogance. The arrival of the anti-Christ is being anticipated anytime between 1996 and the end of the century. So now we know, or do we?

The media, which presently are the conglomerate substitute for "the voice crying in the wilderness" seem quite as certain as was St. John the Baptist, that the day of fulfilment is at hand. The "national" press, "B."B.C. and "Independent" Television abound with news reports and items, debates, articles and comment on every aspect of the coming world unity, all of which seems to have been, and to be, accepted as "inevitable" by probably 96% of the population of the British Isles, although without any sign of enthusiasm; that is left to the 2% suborners and suborned to express. We, Right rebels, are the heirs to the ever recalcitrant 2% who, to the self-appointed master racials' fury, are "like the poor, always with us."

The apathy is, of course, just what the messianic racists have ordered, and will order until the ultimate X arrives.

Whilst it has taken the perfidious Jews nearly two thousand years to reach what they obviously think is the last lap on their journey to mastery of the world, it would take only seconds for straying-should-be Christians to turn to the Right road if they only ask for direction from the Creator of the world and follow his Redeemer Son who has travelled the way through suffering and death, to clear the blocks that vandals have erected on destructive expeditions down the ages. The Risen Christ has made the way passable for anyone with the grace and perseverance to plod through the dust and clamber over or around the obstacles malevolently reared. But it is not enough for us just to save ourselves; charity as well as common sense demands that we should stay to help our blinded neighbours to regain, at least, the will to be led by those who can still see, even though it is "Through a glass darkly." The blind are thus because they have been dosed from infancy with sugar-coated poison which has so impaired their mental vision that they are incapable of seeing the signposts, let alone reading them, and so, will continue to follow the seemingly pleasant path they have been told will go on forever even when the scenery becomes increasingly less inviting than forecast. There have been periods and places when clarity of sight and thought were sufficiently widespread for those times to be viewed nostalgically by later generations as ages of Faith. But it is now so long since there was one of those, that hardly anyone under seventy years of age has been told the truth of their existence and if one were now told, so deliberately distorted are the present day ideas of what is good or beautiful, he would find it hard to believe that such a way of life was history and not some do-gooder's dream - except that it was much too commonsensical to appeal to worshippers of Earth goddesses and such - besides the people were said to be merry!

With sixteenth century decimation of Christendom: the seventeenth century re-establishment of the hierarchy of usurers in England, followed by the eighteenth century rationalism, Europe staggered from one wrong road to another but still with tiny minorities clinging to the ancient faith, some of whom left their native lands to establish themselves in what they hoped would be new Englands, Frances, Netherlands or Germanies; where, leading pioneering lives in alien continents they spread their social, but not necessarily their religious cultures, world wide. British, French, Dutch and Germans fought (often among themselves) for "Living space", converted or dominated and - especially in the case of the British in America - shook off the trammels of their countries of origin and thought themselves free... only to discover, as others before them, that the power of money is international and the love of it breeds internationalists.

So: first fell royal rule. The "sins of the fathers" - and brother, were visited with a vengeance upon Richard III, the last of the Plantagenets. The feckless fornication and lust for land of Edward IV, Edward III and John of Gaunt spawned the bastard offspring that sparked rebellion, usurpation and finally recourse to usurers who thus have since mastered every monarch in England except Charles II.

The Royals were over-ruled either by their own passions or the greed for money that only usurers agreed to satisfy - at their own price: the crack of Christendom released the hoards of heresy, with us to this day; only the Catholic Church by the Grace and Will of God still stood, as now it does - but with how tattered a robe!

INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION

Neither the first nor the second Elizabethans have ever admitted (if they realised it) that through that fatal loss of sovereignty came all the subsequent ills our political flesh is heir to.

Since neither regicide nor religious persecution, treason nor usurpation aroused the contemporary people of England, "who have not spoken yet", to effective protest, we need not wonder at the present evident almost universal indifference in the face of the undisguised advance of what are trained overwhelming forces prepared for D-Day in the Third (and our enemy hopes) last World War; it has been schemed, crafted and recruited over centuries. As Roosevelt's classic phrase has it "Things do not just happen, they are planned that way." The latest phase of the planned apathy began with "The emancipation of women." (So downtrodden in the Middle Ages that they took over their husbands castles and estates and managed them to profit whenever their spouses went on crusade). Twentieth century wives were still given to finding devious ways of influencing the political actions of their husbands; they also still considered it their duty to bring up their children in the traditional ways they should go (even if it was accomplished via the "nanny"); it was not only the so-called upper classes who were exhorted to be bound by "Noblesse Oblige"; craftsmen and peasants had had their own immemorial standards too.

All this had to go.

The Industrial Revolution the Victorians were so proud of began the demise of craft apprenticeships; Enclosure Acts left the dispossessed peasants and few acre farmers nowhere to go but to the assembly lines, the soulless streets or the city slums. Death duties combined with wholesale military slaughter destroyed what was left of the landed gentry and paid parliamentarians completed the subordination of "The Commons" to the diktat of alien bankers. However, whilst families were still close knit in faithful union, it proved impossible to impose an alien culture on a people with no vacuum in their souls.

So: if the apostles of Satan were going to complete the second Fall of Adam and Eve by the prophesied time, how much simpler to tempt the children with the sweets of their desiring, having made them vulnerable by separating their natural guardians - their parents.

"They" looked upon it, and saw the strategy was good. Its implementation was soon given ("Nothing happens by chance") an unprecedented boost:- The Great War!

The carnage of the trenches on the Western Front called for the back-up of every patriotic woman, especially the selfless wives and sisters who volunteered in their thousands to nurse the wounded at home and overseas; to drive ambulances; to "man" assembly lines in ammunition factories and to serve on farms, fields and in offices or wherever the shortage of men left vacancies. When there were no more volunteers, both sexes were conscripted.

Death, separation, disablement and "liberation" destroyed "the family" as an "immovable object."

Come the "peace": The loss of a million or more potential breadwinners, and the inadequacy of compensation forced widowed mothers to seek work in the labour market; the emancipated factory workers no longer saw themselves as "Daughters living at home" subject to parental authority until marriage; especially as nearly a whole generation of potential mates had died in the Flanders mud, drowned in the cruel seas or become disabled pensioners for life.

The hardships of separation, the rigours of war and the post-war miseries of homelessness, poverty and incompatibility were too much for the weakest to bear and the bespoke legislators were only too anxious to "help" with "dole", divorce, "National" Insurance and other sops to allay the hopeless depression on the scrap heap still awaiting transformation into the promised "land fit for heroes to live in."

Thereafter; contraception, abortion, "planned" pregnancies, artificial insemination, fornication, adultery and finally rampant sodomy served to promote the post-Christian communities that are sometimes still lauded as the beneficiaries of brilliant mankind's success in building a better world where everyone is equal... well...did someone say "some are more equal than others"?

FORCES OF EVIL

In 1931, before that nadir was reached, not only Great Britain but her whole empire were in such a parlous condition that desperate political figureheads were forced to justify their positions somehow, so they agreed to call an Imperial Conference at which in 1932, the mother country, her dominions and colonies agreed to trade with one another on advantageous terms. The system was called Imperial Preference. In 1933, Adolf Hitler became Chancellor of the Third Reich; Benito Mussolini was earning Churchillian bouquets for the rejuvenation of Italy; both would be in Axis alliance and agreeing trading preferences with Japan. So what would poor usurers do then? "They" knew, if no one else did.

By 1939, what a different story: Hitler was a monster who was to kill all the Jews in Germany; Mussolini was a clown whose best achievement was, "To make the trains run on time", and Japan, who had been Britain's ally in the Great War, was now a "Yellow Peril". Weirdest of all, Josef Stalin; the murderer, enslaver of tens of millions of Soviet citizens and rapist of Finland was overnight lined up to be transposed into a friend and ally who must be protected at any cost.

No need to repeat what the outcome of all that was - we live with it.

In the 1930's, just when it seemed that the nations were on the verge of freeing themselves from the thrall of the Jewish Money Power, that power's secret weapon burst upon an obediently horrified world - The Holocaust, which we now know was in embryo in 1919*, appeared in the middle of Europe, apparently fostered by Hitler himself and now released like a fully grown gorgon ready to gobble up all the Jews in Germany unless its vile master and his ferocious people were stopped before the victims were eaten alive... or words to that effect. So: Great Britain and her empire, France, Belgium, The Soviet Union, Chiang Kai-Shek's China and the United States of America all went to war (some later than others) with the German nation, the Italian nation and the Japanese nation...

POOR CHILDREN

1995 being the 50th anniversary of the so-called united nations' great victory over the "Forces of evil", the event was celebrated by the veterans of the campaign who - on television at least - appeared to be vastly outnumbered by the weeping survivors of the Holocaust.

And where was the youth in all this celebration of the world having been made safe for democracy? What were the heirs to the spoils of the victory doing?

Possibly: taking pills prior to having a medically approved relationship followed, owing to a miscalculation, by infanticide, euphemistically termed abortion. Or perhaps, enjoying a "Gay" march, or maybe being brainwashed by Satan at a Rock concert. The younger victims of "state education" might be collecting unemployment benefit on account of not being able to write a literate job application letter, or they could be engaged in a riot from sheer boredom or incompatibility with their fellow "Brits" whilst their parents are battering a baby brother to death, mugging some geriatric, raping the neighbour's infant son or daughter; or more conservatively, claiming compensation for being compelled to resign from some military or police force on account of pregnancy.

Such are the products of two latest generations of State "Edjocation". The poor children are acknowledged to be released upon the world, most often in states of illiteracy and innumeracy, ignorant of their own or any other nation's history and convinced believers in evolution and the ultimate divinization mankind - or is it personkind? - - making it one with the wind or the waves or whatever natural wonder takes its fancy - no doubt the Master Race will have something to say to that.

As long as this situation persists we can never think that whatever "bit" we are doing is enough. We must double and redouble our efforts and pray for perseverance:- To hold fast to what we have

To recover what has been lost

To unite what has been divided

To remember that who survives wins

WE DO NOT HAVE TO CONQUER THE DEVIL - JUST MAKE SURE HE DOES NOT CONQUER US.

BOOK REVIEW

BEYOND POLITICS: A META-HISTORICAL VIEW by Solange Hertz

As we witness the ever-increasing disorder of moral decadence and political disintegration worldwide, we can have no better set of guidelines for thought and action than Beyond Politics by Solange Hertz. She sees the world and its history from God's point of view: she sees things whole.

Many prominent groups in the Church today, intent on upholding the Faith in its integrity, nevertheless in their publications fail to present us with the total picture. Significant pieces are missing from every one of them. The Society of Saint Pius X may have the Mass and offer a large portion of doctrine, but it fails to make any connection between modern science and the Faith - from Galileo to Einstein, from Darwin to the Couple-to-Couple League, test-tube babies, etc., and from Lucifer himself to Ben Franklin, Nikola Tesla, and a lifestyle dependent on a technology that prides itself on excluding God. This is a disastrous blind-spot in their vision.

Where the truths of Faith are concerned, we cannot be picky. We must have all of them or fall into heresy. In her books and articles, Mrs. Hertz gives us a truly Catholic catechesis, one that covers all, leaves out nothing, and puts things in proper perspective, sub specie aeternitatis. We sorely need her strong, clear vision of the supernatural to warn us against the all-pervasive mire of naturalistic, humanistic sentiment that the media specializes in these days and which Pope and bishops alike are all too prone to reinforce and support.

Why is the new Mass so disturbing? Read "Lucifer's Primacy", especially page 15, and "The Master Heresy", pages 133 and 143. Why is the world in such turmoil and getting worse? Read "Two Beasts and a Dragon". It's no fairytale!

Are you tempted (and it is a temptation) to regard Protestants as Christians? Read and re-read page 23, along with page 135. The awesome importance of the relation between Faith and science is brought out clearly in "What's Up?", "Recanting Galileo" and "Hell's Amazing Grace".

Put succinctly: Because the spiritual life rests on a natural cosmology which underlies all created reality, a warped view of material creation inevitably distorts to some degree the perception of everything lying above and beyond it... (page 38) ... the actual structure of the universe is properly an object of faith. (page 55)

There is indeed no opposition between faith and science, but faith exposes false science on contact. (page 66).

It follows that if you believe in Heliocentrism and Evolutionism (the two are not unrelated), then there is something wrong with your faith, conciliar concessions notwithstanding. That most traditional groups in the Church utterly fail to realize these facts does not bode well for their future, temporal or eternal.

For an update on developments in cosmology, there is no better summary than "Recanting Galileo". The secular scientists may well come to the truth before most Catholics:

Creationist scientists worldwide like those organized by CESHE in Belgium and France, are making serious headway against the old myths (the myths of heliocentrism and evolution) which even atheists are beginning to abandon. (page 64. Emphasis added).

"Hell's Amazing Grace" is a finely expanded version of the earlier "Satan's Grace" about the marvels of electricity, a discovery universally regarded as an unadulterated benefit for mankind.

But is it?

Modern society's dependence on the new energy exceeds that of any addictive drug. Whole cultures have been put at the mercy of whoever controls the current. (page 70)

Advancing roughshod as it has over the ruins of Christendom in proportion to the decline of the Faith, it can only have been gleaned from preternatural sources, for never could it claim Christian inspiration. (page 71. Emphasis added)

And think of children reared in front of the TV set by parents as addicted to the tube as their offspring.

In the long run, electronic entertainments may render widespread persecution unnecessary... (page 80)

For why should Satan bother about those he already has captivated? How, then, can we fail to wonder, with Mrs. Hertz whether such pervasive use of electromagnetism may not, ...set up a kind of permanent reciprocity between mankind and the power of hell? (page 84)

"The Antichristians", "The Irreconcilables" and "The Master Heresy" (chapters on Judaism) are of primary importance for our understanding of what is happening in the Church. Especially must we realize the falsehood embedded in the popular term judeo-christian.

The oxymoron judeo-christian... is sufficiently ambiguous to cover almost any position without yielding ideological ground to the opposition, all the while lending an aura of unity where none can possibly exist. (page 115. Emphasis added)

With Catholics, including the Pope participating in Jewish festivals and ceremonies and regarding Jews as their elder brothers, these papers of Mrs. Hertz take on a practical and spiritual significance that can hardly be exaggerated. To believe in the Ten Commandments of the Old Testament is one thing; to reject our Lord Jesus Christ as the Messiah and only Savior of the world is something else. Jews might tell us they revere the Ten Commandments (and what are the Commandments, anyway, but the natural law codified in stone for a stiff-necked people?) but what can that avail to those who reject the only One Who gives us the grace to keep those Commandments unto eternal life? Such rejection leads only to a sterile humanism and a barren utopia limited to this short life on earth!

Judaism is the very antithesis of Christianity in its hatred of the Cross (expiatory and redemptive suffering), in its vindictive refusal to forgive, its denial of eternal punishment, and its utopian this-worldliness. (See pages 109-112)

The prophet Isaias clearly foresaw our days when he warned: "Woe to you that call evil good, and good evil, that put darkness for light, and light for darkness." (Isaias 5:20-21)

In such times of diabolical disorientation and deception, we need sure guides. Solange Hertz is certainly one because she knows how to make use of the helps God Himself has given us in the Church, in Holy Scripture and in His Mother. With a wisdom, knowledge, and understanding exceedingly rare in these times of mass delusion, Mrs. Hertz highlights the truths that must guide us in preserving the Faith both in intellect and will, in knowing and doing. (Cf page 89)

"The Master Heresy" outlines the frightening degree to which the conciliar Church is being judaized. If according to St. Pius X Modernism is the compendium of all heresies, Judaism is their fountainhead. All are derived from it, not excluding Mohammedanism. (page 132)

One could not help but notice that the speakers featured at the memorial service in Oklahoma City (April 23, 1995), including a Catholic Archbishop and Billy Graham, addressed and referred to God many times but never once, that I heard, spoke the Name of Our Lord Jesus Christ. Again, we are in that time when No man spoke openly of Him, for fear of the Jews. (John 7:13. Emphasis added). And the Pope himself leads the way in this judaizing of Christians. (See page 144)

Intrinsically related to our understanding of the judaizing tendency is our understanding of the papacy and its current occupant. Nothing has so clarified and resolved for me the terrible dilemmas raised by an heretical pope as the chapters in Beyond Politics entitled "Peter's Politics" as they originally appeared in The Remnant. With the examples of papal defects, beginning with St. Peter Himself and continuing throughout history, and with the exposition of the attempted divorce of the Church-State marriage illumined by historical examples of papal complicity with democracy's evil principles, Mrs. Hertz shows clearly how it has been possible for a pope to err personally, thus bringing us to the present crisis, while at the same time the Church herself, the Bride of Christ and His Mystical Body, remains without spot or blemish. The true Church, in her human aspects, is being purified in the catacombs while an apostate hierarchy pipes to the children of this world's darkness and cavorts with the Beast of the Apocalypse. For the Church must experience again, in her members, the Passion and Death of her Spouse, before she can be resurrected with Him. And she is suffering at the hands of the same people who first seized Him and put Him to death in their hour and the power of darkness. (Luke 22:53)

Heresy under a charming disguise is a thousand times more dangerous than heresy expressed in the harsh and arid garb of the scholastic syllogism, through which the death's skull grins with unadorned hideousness.

Fr. Sarda y Salvany, (Liberalism is a Sin, p101)

And is not the heresy most susceptible of rationalized self-deception that of papolatry? The heresy which is a-borning, wrote a French priest in 1926, will be the most dangerous of all. It consists in exaggerating the respect due the Pope and overextending his infallibility. (p174)

We can see today what an easy way out of countless dilemmas is this blind Masonic obedience of papolatry. But in the light of Mrs. Hertz's analyses, do we really have any excuse for a heresy surely calculated to deceive, if possible, even the elect? (Matthew 24:24)

Any attempt to review a book by Mrs. Hertz would not begin to approach adequacy without praise for her invaluable contribution to the theology of the family. And this book contains no passing references but a wealth of her mature reflection. "The Family Threatens Utopia" and "The Abomination" are classic, vintage SH. For couples to plan their families, whether by natural or artificial means, is to snatch from God His most precious attribute, that of His loving Providence, and to arrogate it to oneself. It is to refuse to submit to His all-holy Will. The purpose of marriage is to people heaven, and only God knows the number of the elect.

I heard a Catholic woman on the radio praising and promoting the natural family planning methods taught by the Couple-to-Couple League. She made it very plain how much self-will is involved when she exclaimed: "We wanted two children and that's just what we got!" How far removed is such an attitude from that of souls submitted to God and abandoned to His gracious care in living Faith and Love. But listen to Solange Hertz:

Faith tells us that family planning involves a major confrontation with God, over and beyond the utilitarian hedonism and distrust of divine Providence which provoke it. Perhaps no confrontation of such magnitude has occurred since Eden, where human planning is precisely what prompted the original sin of Adam and Eve. (page 205)

Let the practitioners of family planning who seek to vindicate their way of life by righteous emphasis on self-discipline, keep not only Adam and Eve in mind, but the words of Isaias the Prophet, who told the hypocrites of his day, Behold! in the day of your fast your own will is found! (58:3) (page 210)

As mother of five and grandmother of at least twenty, Mrs. Hertz is eminently qualified to speak on such a subject. But mere experience is not enough. What is needed is experience reflected upon in the light of divine Faith, experience sanctified by grace and crowned with virtue. Her well-known position on family planning is simply that of the Saints down through the Catholic ages. (see page 211)

Lucifer and Michael, Angels and us, Faith and science, Church and state, papolatry, religion and politics (... the laity had best begin putting religion back into politics where it belongs. p179), the Family, the Home (the Forever Feast), Americanism and the evils of democracy; the Most Blessed Trinity, Christ our King, Mary our Queen and Mother, Spouse of the Holy Ghost and personal symbol of the Church; these are the realities upon which Mrs. Hertz fixes her gaze and ours, if we look with her, viewing all things temporal in the light of the eternal, not abstract truths but the Person Who is Truth and Light and the only Way to Heaven. That she confides the souls of her readers to the Holy Souls in Purgatory (see preface) shows how closely she associates the Church Militant with the Church Suffering, especially in these days of such severe trials for our holy Faith.

Mrs. Hertz's writings wear extremely well. One reads and re-reads them with ever new practical and spiritual enlightenment. Let not Remnant readers think it redundant to purchase her books. There are significant expansions of the original articles which appeared in Remnant. Here she has pulled out all the stops and it is truly wonderful! Her applications of Holy Scripture are ever more dazzling! What a priceless gift it is to have these works in book form. Veritas Press is to be congratulated for its courageous good sense.

Finally, to all readers of this review, let me say that you discount or ignore Solange Hertz at your peril.

UNDERLINING THE UNDERMINING

As Paula Haigh says (above), Solange Hertz has provided a comprehensive view of what has been undermined in the Catholic Faith, and an over-all indication of whose obstinate errors perpetuate the current propagation of the current heresies, which must be of overwhelming interest to everyone concerned with understanding, and abandoning or persuading others to abandon the present "confrontation with God" which now perhaps equals in magnitude that which occurred in Eden. If Beyond Politics is a must, "not only for Catholics" then equally so, is the exposition of how and by which individuals, the undermining of the repository of that Faith - The Catholic Church - has brought about the seemingly unstoppable heretical stampede from Peter's Rock. Find out how it is done by reading: The Undermining of the Catholic Church by Mary Ball Martinez. £10 including post and packing. (Overseas orders add 10%). CREED OF A FASCIST REVOLUTIONARY a review by Blackshirt

"Extremism does not mean violence, which is the political weapon of the ape. What it does mean is the giving of the whole of oneself and all the time and treasure one can afford, to the cause - for us the greatest of earthly causes, which is to rescue the once great British nation from the muddy Stygian depths in which she flounders. Whoever thinks that this task can be undertaken without extreme activity, without getting mud bespattered on hands and cuffs and without being called nasty names, is a weakling, a political flaneur whose only service is to keep a hundred miles away from the battlefield. Forward the Extremists!

Let those who really mean business get down to the job in hand and never mind the smears. The personal reward is nil. The national award will be superb."

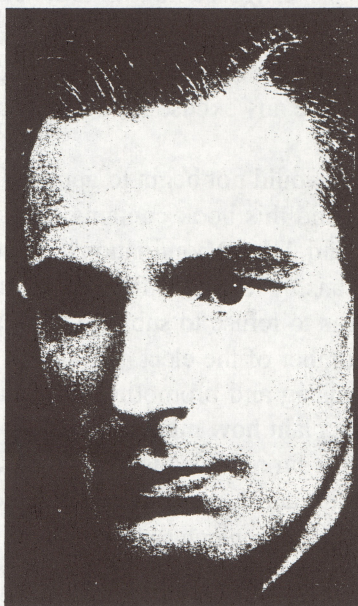

I intended to begin this review with a direct quote from Creed of a Fascist Revolutionary, however, the above quotation is from: Forward the Extremists, Candour, February 1970. Why? Because on reading for the first time Creed of a Fascist Revolutionary, written by A.K. Chesterton in the mid 1930's, one is struck not only by the consistent force and "Rightness" of his work over several decades but also by the fact that he kept on and on, to the very end of his life, (in 1973) without throwing in the towel in despair at the sight of those who should have known better, refusing to pay heed to every obvious danger sign and with eyes wide open, hurling themselves, lemming like off the nearest and highest cliff top. After World War II, A.K. urged the people in what was left of the British Empire to: "Standfast", but again and again they placed their fate in the hands of the Ian Smiths of this world.

In Creed of a Fascist Revolutionary, A.K. wrote - half a lifetime before "Forward the Extremists" appeared in 1970 - the following:

"The civilisation of the future will not be served by the conjurer and the flaneur, but by men and women in a white-heat of sincerity: men and women who will build up their corporate life with sweat and agony of labour, and interpret that building up as the cardinal purpose of their lives.

Their work never at any stage will be easy, least of all in these days of the revolution which they plan. Confronting them is not only the conservatism of those who defend the present, but even more the conservatism of those who profess to rebel against it. As a gigantic fake has been perpetrated upon the people of Britain for a hundred years, so now are half of them in the throes of a fake rebellion. Will disillusionment come in time?"

A.K. was one of a generation shaped by the bloody carnage they had witnessed and participated in on the now, clotted the "Political Scene". It was during this period that he wrote, Creed of a Fascist Revolutionary.

We are indebted to Dr. Ed Fields, the editor of The Truth at Last, (PO Box 1211, Marietta, Georgia, USA), for his great service in re-printing Creed of a Fascist Revolutionary from an original that recently came into his possession. It is particularly gratifying to know that the work of A.K. Chesterton is once again being distributed on the other side of the Atlantic. (The New Unhappy Lords saw three printings in the USA) and inspiring a new generation of activists. We have ordered copies from Dr. Fields, and urge all Candour readers to place advance orders now.

The words of A.K. ring as truly today as they did to the young men and women who first read and were inspired by them some sixty years ago...

It is argued that the defects which make Britons mightypoor revolutionaries represent sterling qualities in the national character - for instance, what the Ostrer newspaper calls "the splendid spectacle of Britain's sanity" boils down to this apparent incapacity for anger.

Realists who use such terms are at once suspect. They know that a race of men who good-humouredly suffer their national life to wear the aspect of a gigantic charade, while every kind of financial rampage and political chicanery operates to their disadvantage behind the scenes, cannot by any stretch of the imagination be accounted sane. When such people congratulate us upon our sanity, therefore, what they are really doing is congratulating themselves upon their lack of intimate acquaintance with our lamp-posts.

The peril of our peoples lies in this very toleration in which they are taught to take so large a pride. That we are a temperate people is not to our discredit, except that everywhere our mildness is exploited. That our spirits seek peace is not an indictment against us, except that everywhere our tranquillity provides soil for the cultivation of overlords who are blood-cousins to the maggot and the leech.

There is no hope of national salvation until Britons learn to look through their boasted virtue of tolerance and bring forth anger as a sword to clear away the foulness which that same tolerance has bred.

OUR GLOBAL FUTURE

Two observers from Candour attended the Saturday session of the Global Future '95 exhibition held at Olympia between 22-25 June. The show was primarily concerned with, "The Environment, People, Products and Services" but was also "supporting the United Nations 50th anniversary..Uniting the people of the world for a better future".

Having paid our admission fee, we collected our programmes and passed the security guards we entered another world, their world. Throughout the day conferences took place in various parts of the vast complex where on the theme of "Making the U.N. Work", people such as Erskine Childers - former adviser to the U.N Secretary General - talked menacingly of "enforcing" the U.N.'s mandate, wherever people are stupid enough not to know what is best for them! Bruce Kent, formerly of C.N.D. and now with Pax Christi and representatives of like organisations gave audiences the benefit of their wisdom.

With more than 200 stalls to visit we were left in no doubt, even if we were before, after seeing the myriad of groups and individuals present, as to the complexity and scale of the move towards One World Government.

The conference was a showcase not only for U.N. based organisations such as the United Nations Association (which have offices and groups in all the main cities of the U.K.), but also pressure groups such as, Renew U.N. or The Commission for Global Governance ("global governance is not global government") and the World Court Project.

For the most part however the emphasis was on environmental projects and concerns; New Age philosophies and practices; arts and crafts from the Third World along with the major charities such as Oxfam and Amnesty International.

We collected a great amount of literature and just to give you a flavour...

Rainbow 2000: Invites us all to a magical interactive camp where "You'll find a light, loving, nurturing environment" offering a ten day shamanic experience in Spain. Workshops are held to celebrate the 'new' you, with, 'inner journeys', 'medicine wheels', and 'crystal and colour reading'.

The International Light Foundation:- Centres to save the world. "The aim of the International Light Foundation is to form a network of centres around the world to focus on environmental, planetary, spiritual and personal awareness, thus forming an interconnecting web of like minded people to help the population of the Earth to grow into a more harmonious race." (note, singular, "Race").

The Pagan-Christian Communion (including multi-faith meditation): To quote from their Order of Service; "The sacred place is laid out in a circle, with altars at each of the four quarters Suitable decoration on each expresses the four elements of nature i.e. east/Air/yellow; south/Fire/red; west/Water/blue and north/Earth/green..." This service includes the blasphemous Lord and Lady Prayer:

*Our Father and Mother
Who are the Heaven and the Earth,
Many and beautiful are your names.
May your Nature be known and loved
As your Will is unfolded
On Earth and in all the other Heavens
Help us to get our daily bread
And help us to learn from our mistakes
As we struggle to understand what we most fear in others
For your Nature is everything
Power, Wisdom, Love and Beauty
For ever and ever Amen/Blessed be □*

There was much more of this, all presented by bright, articulate and sincere young people who really believe that they are right. Ominous enough in itself perhaps, but they were stationed together with stalls representing The Morning Star (socialist daily), the Democratic Left (ex-Communist Party of Great Britain) - "pluralist, democratic, green, feminist, anti-racist and global", and finally the Marx Memorial Library.

The real eye-opener for those not in the know though, were the others represented; HMSO Books - "On display will be books and constructive legislations from the DoE, HMIP, UN and many more highlighting positive approaches to world problems and solutions available"; Bank of Scotland Card Services; DuPont UK Ltd and others all sponsored by the multinational Goldstar ("Technology with the Human Touch").

To recap: you have representations from multinational companies, environmentalists, pagans, Christians, Communists and plain bleeding heart liberals all under the same roof, chasing the same goal of One World Government.

Nothing strange about that to a Candour reader is there?

FREEDOM VIDEOS

AMERICA IN PERIL (A CALL TO ARMS) - NEW

Mark Koernke, "The Man from Michigan", a former U.S. army intelligence analyst explains the threatened hostile takeover of the United States by the United Nations military forces. Recorded shortly before the Oklahoma bombing this video puts many of the events that are happening now into perspective.

Mark presents the hard, brutal and often seemingly unbelievable facts in an informed and articulate way.

This videotape concludes with an excellent studio recorded session by Carl Klang, the American patriotic musician and singer. Includes hits "Hang 'Um' High" and "It's Coming Down", (The New World Order)."

USS LIBERTY SURVIVORS: OUR STORY + THE HIDDEN AGENDA

USS Liberty Survivors: Our Story describes the USS Liberty incident through eyewitness accounts of the survivors. It is the only video account free from the Orwellian doublespeak that has obscured the event since June 8, 1967, when Israeli jet aircraft and motor torpedo boats brutally attacked the USS Liberty in international waters. The attack lasted more than two hours, killing 54 Americans and wounding 171 others - and it inflicted over 800 rocket and torpedo holes in the ship. When the USS Liberty refused to sink, Israeli forces machine-gunned her life rafts and sent in troop-carrying helicopters to finish the job. Details of the attack were hushed up in both countries. Israel claimed that her forces mistook the USS Liberty for an Egyptian ship; America quietly accepted that excuse despite evidence to the contrary. The facts have been covered up, and have never been told on video - until now.

Now learn the truth from the men who lived through it!

The Hidden Agenda: Norman Dodd was, in 1954, the staff director of the Congressional Special Committee to investigate tax-exempt foundations. Recorded soon before his death in the 1980's this interview has captured a rare piece of history and illustrates the continuity between the past and present drive for a "New World Order".
